Architecture.

The American student to whom the mysteries of architecture are made clear in Paris or New York forgets what was the former sanctity of his art. Mr. Herbert Spencer shows conclusively that the professional architect of thousands of years ago was the priest. Early architecture sprang from ancestral worship, and ancestral worship was the oldest of all beliefs. The graves of the departed had first to be preserved. The embellishment came afterward; then the calling of the architect became sacred. The relic had to be preserved within an elaborate shrine. At first it might have been that the erection of a tomb called forth a certain amount of skill, and soon the temple followed the tomb. Menelio's hieroglyphic inscription that "the chief architect was promoted and became a priest" shows the merging of the two callings.

"I am a great architect," says King Bokonkosa, "and I was a holy father to the people of Ammon for 12 years." Sometimes the architect in Egypt was also a general. Herbert Spencer shows how any special skill among a primitive people was always supposed by them to be derived from some supernatural power. There must have been amazement when the first arch was sprung. Coming down nearer to our own time, even to the tenth century, we know that abbots and priests were the architects. The legend that in Raphael's age Pope Leo appointed an aged friar as an assistant in the building of St. Peter's. It was very much nearer to our day when the clerical architect gave up his task, leaving the constructive part to the master builder, and from the master builder came the modern architect.

Etiquette of Audiences.

A question of the etiquette of audiences arose once in New York when the Symphony society's concert was given. Mr. Joseph played the second Brahmin concerto, which threw the audience into a state of intense enthusiasm. He was called out a dozen times, and yet the audience persisted in its applause. Finally Mr. Damrosch, the conductor, made as if to proceed with the programme, but the audience kept up their applause. Mr. Damrosch waved his baton and began the next number. The sounds of the orchestra were drowned, however, by the noise of the audience. Mr. Damrosch then rapped sharply upon his desk, and the musicians and the audience both became silent. He turned to the audience and gave them a sharp rebuke for the manner in which they had conducted themselves, saying to them that to ask a pianist, no matter how much he might have pleased them, to add to his exhausting labors after playing such a concerto was neither an appreciation of his art nor an evidence of good manners. The audience very sensibly accepted the rebuke, and the performance went on.

Interruptions by the Court.

Lord Chief Justice Eric was prone to interrupt counsel when it was found that the judges had already made up their minds against him. On one occasion Mr. Boivill, Q. C., soon afterward made a judge, was stopped with: "Hero we stand, we four men, and we have all firmly (emphasizing the adverb) made up our minds that there must be a new trial, but if you think it worth your while going on after that (playfully), why, of course we'll keep on hearing you." Whereupon the Q. C. laughingly sat down.

On another occasion he again interrupted with "I beg to inform the counsel there is a time in the mind of every man at which he lets down the flood-gates of his understanding and allows not one more drop to enter" and that time, in my judgment, has fully arrived."

The Diminishing Alligator.

The alligator is being reduced in size steadily. I would like to hear about alligator, 21 feet in length. A gentleman who is a naturalist as well as a sportsman is proud of having killed a gator measuring 13 feet 9 inches, and he believes a story about another nearly 15 feet long, but he does not expect that this gator will ever see an alligator over 16 feet in length. This retrospective from the pictures in the geography of childhood is due to no fault of the alligator, but to the presence of unimaginative northerners. The gators are as big as they were ever; it is only the species that have grown smaller.

The Mikado.

The mikado is the religious head of the Japanese as well as their ruler. His place is hereditary, and it has been filled by members of his family for more than 2,500 years. His is incomparably the most ancient lineage known. The mikado is the one hundred and twenty-second of the line. The founder of it, whose hope of posterity in his wildest dreams could not have equalled the result, was contemporary with Nebuchadnezzar, 660 B. C. Of the seven great religions enumerated by Max Muller as possessing Bibles, the mikado's family is older than five.

In 1868 paper cuirasses were invented for the use of the French army. They were light and impenetrable to bullets of the old style, but the penetrative power of modern rifles made them useless, and they were laid aside.

Sometimes it seems to weary woman that she must certainly give up. The slow and easiest work becomes an almost insurmountable task. Lassitude almost overcomes her. Nervousness and sleeplessness and weariness and life seems hardly worth the living.

That her sufferings are due solely to her own fault seldom occurs to her, but often it is so. Health, strength and vigorous vitality are hers if she will take care of them for them.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was made for her. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best for the ill distinctly feminine, the other for her general system. Together they supply the scientific, simplest, most effective treatment. The "Favorite Prescription" restores healthy, regular action to the organs distinctly feminine. It forces out all impurities, strengthens the tissues, allays irritating inflammation. The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes appetite, helps digestion, removes incrustations and necrosis with great solid flesh and brings back the gladness of girlhood. Best of all, with these remedies there is no need of detected examinations and "local treatment" so abhorrent to every modest woman.

Thousands of grateful women have written letters like this:

Mrs. SAMANTHA M. CRANNER, of Box 44, La Roy, Bradford Co., Pa. writes: "I am with pleasure that you write me in regard to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Favorite Prescription—the medicines which have done me so much good. I was completely run down by a severe attack of rheumatism and fever. I had been getting weaker and worse for several years until I lost all hope of ever getting any better. I took four bottles of each of your medicines and am now perfectly well." Respectfully yours,

Samantha M. Cranner

THE SILVER PARTY.

Four years ago the Silver Party was organized in Nevada. Men, who, as Republicans and Democrats, had fought each other for years, united on the single issue of restoring silver to the place assigned it as a money metal by the founders of the Government, and pledged the electoral vote of the State to the Presidential candidate who stood on a free coinage platform. This movement of the independent voters of the State was combated by the spoilsmen of both the old parties. These plotters pretended to be silver men, though supporting parties whose records proved that they were unalterably opposed to free coinage. Their sophistry did not deceive the people and the electoral vote of the State was cast for General James B. Weaver, the only Presidential candidate who stood on a silver platform.

The Republicans then, as now, predicted an overwhelming majority for their candidate, and if they carried half the States that they claimed, so that neither Cleveland nor Harrison would have had a majority in the electoral college, the 22 electoral votes of Weaver would have been used effectively in the cause of silver and the panic of 1893 and the resultant depression would have been averted.

Now the old party leaders in this State ask What the Silver party has accomplished? A glance at the political situation to-day answers the question effectively. It has made the coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 grains of silver to one grain of gold the paramount issue in National politics. It has parted the Democratic party as dukes do their hair, right in the middle, and disrupted the Republican party very near the same line. This it has accomplished in spite of a Democratic Administration and a Republican Congress. It has forced the gold men of both old parties to combine on more than one occasion in Congress to defeat the passage of a free coinage bill, and forced Senator Sherman, the acknowledged champion of the Republican financial policy, to become the defender and apologist for President Cleveland. It has resulted in the organization of a National Silver party, in whose ranks are men who have been recognized as the ablest leaders in the Republican and Democratic parties. It has proved to the country what independence can accomplish, and to-day the example of Nevada is being followed by the organization of silver leagues in almost every Southern and Western State. It has given to Nevada the most economical government the State ever had, and about which there is not a taint of corruption nor a breath of suspicion.

That the Silver party has not accomplished more is due to the patronage of the Administration, the money and influence of the gold trust and the combined efforts of Republicans and Democrats to deride its efforts to reform the finances of the nation, and misrepresent its motives and purposes.

Give it the power now in the hands of Republican Congress, and a President pledged to its principles, and in six months the United States would be, what the enterprise of its citizens and its unlimited resources entitle it to be, the most prosperous nation on the earth, and Nevada one of the best States in the Union. Can as much be promised, with any hope of fulfilling the promise, by either or both of the old parties? Both old party organizations are controlled by the gold combination and differ only 11 per cent on tariff schedules and that difference, every person with the brains of a titmouse, knows full well is not the cause of the dull times.

TELLER AND SHERMAN.

Senators Teller and Sherman crossed swords in the Senate on the financial question. Both are Republicans though representing diametrically opposite factions of the party. Teller is for silver and emphatically declared that he would vote as he spoke and would not hesitate to sever his connection with the party with which he had been allied for forty years if it pronounced for the gold standard. Sherman argued against the fifty-cent dollar and announced that the time had come for a decisive opinion from the people, to whom he appealed the case at the coming election. This means that Sherman will use his influence for the gold standard as he always has done.

That these two Republican leaders will be arrayed against each other in the Presidential campaign there is no longer any doubt. Under which leader will the silver Republicans of Nevada fight? Will they, while professing to be silver men, march under the yellow flag of Sherman or the gold and silver banner of the Coloradan? The Senators differ only on the financial question so that those who follow Teller out of the gold camp and into the silver ranks sacrifice no principle.

NEWLANDS' OPINION.

In a speech in the House of Representatives in opposition to the Bankruptcy bill, Congressman Newlands said if the Democrats at the Chicago Convention abandon free trade ideas and declare for silver a fusion of the silver elements will follow which will be successful next November. Mr. Newlands is doubtless right.

The gold men attribute the present depressed condition of the country to the Wilson Act, and whether right or wrong many believe them. If the Democrats let the tariff question alone or pledge the next Congress to regulate it by modifying the laws so as to give the producers of raw materials in the West and South the same protection that the Wilson bill gives the manufacturers of the East, and declare for absolute free coinage, they will unite all the silver elements of the country and insure the election of a President and a Congress that will open the mints to silver as well as gold.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The second fire at Cripple Creek destroyed over a million dollars' worth of property and died for lack of material on which to feed. Thousands are homeless and tents have been sent from Denver and other cities. Mrs. Andrew Thomas was boiling soap at her home in Phillipsburg, New Jersey. Her clothing caught fire and in a moment she was enveloped in flames. Her cries brought her husband to her assistance, but she was burned almost to a crisp.

An explosion in a colliery in Yorkshire, England, killed about one hundred persons.

Resolutions instructive for McKinley were unanimously adopted by the Illinois Republican Convention.

William Taylor was hanged at Carrollton, Missouri, yesterday for the murder of the Meeks family.

Robert Campbell, despondent over the loss of his property in the Cripple Creek fire, shot himself through the heart at Denver yesterday. His wife attempted to kill herself, but was prevented.

LANDER COUNTY.

Items of Interest From Austin and vicinity.

Considerable activity is noticeable in all the mining districts in the central part of the State, and the outlook is cheering for a good summer's work. At Austin the work is being steadily pressed forward by the Austin Mining Company. At the Union an incline is being sunk on the ledge from the 525 level. The ledge is very thick along this incline and of good quality.

The company has increased its force at the Clifton tunnel, which is now driven back nearly a mile under Lander hill, and is urging forward this work with all possible dispatch. This tunnel, when completed, will drain all the mines on the hill, tapping them at a depth of 300 or 350 feet below the water level. Several valuable ledges have already been cut, and crews are at work on crosscuts and ledges in the tunnel. The plant at the mouth of the tunnel has been largely added to and preparations are being made for extensive work during the summer.

Anson Phelps Stokes and a party of other gentlemen from New York, largely interested in these mines and the Nevada Central railroad, recently paid Austin a visit. They expressed themselves as well satisfied with the progress of the work here. They visited Big Creek and Kingston canyons locating those streams for the purpose of putting in an electric plant, so that electric lights for the mines and town of Austin may be said to be more than a possibility. These gentlemen left overland on the line of the old N. C. survey, with a view to the practicability of extending that road south to the Colorado river. Recently discovered promising gold prospects near Ionex have probably contributed somewhat to this new movement.

The Tenaya Mill & Mining Company, with a capital stock of $1,500,000, have filed articles of incorporation with the Recorder of Lander county. This new company proposes to operate the Cortez mines on an extensive scale. Work will be begun at once.

Considerable machinery recently arrived at Austin for the New Pass mines, which will be developed this season.

Austin, April 27, 1896. C.

THE OUTLOOK IN HUMBOLDT.

The "Silver State" says it is most encouraging.

The Silver State speaks very encouragingly of the outlook in Humboldt County. The snow and rain storms of the last two weeks is sufficient if properly and equitably distributed, to supply alfalfa and grain fields along the river from Wells to Lovelock. The reports from Quin river are most flattering, and there will be an unusually heavy grain crop.

Paradise Valley has two flouring mills that can handle all the grain raised and supply the northern part of the country with flour.

Lovelock is a great cattle feeding and fattening point. It has extensive alfalfa fields, and the climate is favorable. The prospects for an influx of capital to develop gold mines are good. Salt Lake men who have been looking at the mines in Central district say that if the mines were located in Colorado they would be swarming with people in thirty days.

Humboldt is on the up grade, and all that is needed to make it prosperous in every line is the remonetization of silver, which would give it a home market for all its farm products.

A GOOD RULE.

The Supreme Court of Nevada has adopted the following rule: "Under no circumstances shall this Court or any of the District Courts of the State of Nevada, hear proof for the issuance of, or issue final papers on certificates of naturalization to any applicant therefor, at any time within 60 days immediately preceding any general or special election of this State."

BREVITIES.

Complaint is made that the horses hitched at the Baptist Church during evening meetings are taken from there and after being driven about town are left on Virginia or some other street. The matter will be looked after and the person or persons are liable to arrest.

R. Brown, Superintendent, accompanied thirteen students of the University to San Francisco last evening. The University boys are going to visit the athletic games between the Stanford and Berkeley teams and may enter for a contest. The experience will be of much value to the boys and as it goes now-a-days is part of their education.

The late arrivals at the hotel Reno yesterday were James Costello and T. L. Butler, Wadsworth; Ezra Kendall and "The Kids" troupe; A. Bussanger, and wife, Jno. Blaney, Geo. H. Byrne, F. McDermott, F. A. Cooke, M. J. Loofburro, all of Truckee; Anson Pitcher, Westfield, Mass.; J. Michel, Denver; J. T. Walker Wadsworth; L. B. Ladd, N. S. LaPoint and J. Knowles, Winnemucca; M. A. Melvin and J. Garaut, Wadsworth.

The Gazette says that nearly every town in California of any size has nicely paved streets and good sidewalks. There is no doubt of this, but the Gazette ought to have gone farther and said that the tax rate in nine-tenths of those California towns is nearly, if not fully one-third less than the rate in Reno, not considering the extras that are worked in on the side in the latter place, and still we have miniature lakes in the streets, small ranges of mountains, and wooden sidewalks at every known grade, and yet the Board of County Commissioners are allowed to live.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

M. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live.

Giving Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it.

Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

VIAVI.

Viavi is more of a food than a medicine. I should be glad to have those who do not understand its use, call and get a Health Book free and read the home testimonials. Viavi sales in 1895 exceeded those in 1894 by half a million dollars. Mrs. B. E. Hunter, Fourth Street.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a complicated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. This is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is growing stronger, so highly does it value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commanded to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Thos. J. Donelin, train dispatcher at Wadsworth, the swing train was held up after 12 o'clock yesterday in order to give the crew an opportunity to attend the funeral of the late William Biggs.

The "Lily of Killarney" is a chain of delightful melody, graceful and pleasing to the ear. Storms of applause greeted the performance. The dialogue is witty and the melodramatic scenes evoked great enthusiasm.—Y. World.

Amity Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will give a reception to Grand Chancellor Hummel on May 22d. The event is in honor of the official visit of the Grand Chancellor. A programme will be arranged and the occasion will doubtless be a pleasant affair.

Among those noticed from a distance yesterday to attend the funeral of William Biggs were Mr. and Mrs. Toumey of Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. George Abbey and family of Wadsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bushager, Truckee, and Thos. Donelin, train dispatcher at Wadsworth.

There is a lake over in front of John Hogan's place on Plaza street and several parties have been considering the advisability of starting a sea-side resort in that part of town. It is hardly probable that such will be the case, however, for should anyone take advantage of the situation, the Commissioners would have the hole moved to some other part of the street.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

SECOND TRIAL OF JOHN T. JONES —NINTH DAY.

The Prosecution Rests and Defense Commences—Henry Not Called in—Interesting Points Coming.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)
CANCON CITY, April 30, 1896.

Cris B. Zabriskie arrived this morning from San Francisco and took the witness stand for the prosecution under General Clarke's direct examination. The son of the former molter and refiner of the Carson Mint knew the defendant, Jones, in Candelaria, and ever since first knew him in the saloon business, which was not a success. Was afterward engaged with him in the mercantile business. Located him $600 which he afterward paid me in monthly installments, some of it after he got into the mint. He was poor and in debt when he left Candelaria. He got the appointment of Assistant Molter and Refiner in July, 1890. Borrowed $2,000 of him in 1891 and paid it all back to him since.

Hirsch Harris recalled.—This is the computation book of the Melting and Refining Department, used in the settlement of 1893. It is in the handwriting of Mr. Jones. The Bodie melt was delivered in the settlement of 1893, passed also through the settlement of 1894, and was weighed, assayed and detected in 1895. It cannot be traced to its origin in the consolidated melt book by reason of those leaves being extracted. Mr. Jones had no access to the books after his suspension and dismissal. I did not mutilate that book. The molds of the deposit melting room are always kept there. The stamps and dies used in marking the bullion were shown to the jury, showing certain discrepancies, especially the figure 4, belonging to the deposit melting room, which is smaller than that of the melting room, and with which the bogus Bodie melt was stamped.

Statements of W. E. Morgan, Government agent, in the settlement of 1893 to the Director of the Mint at Washington, was read, and accepted by counsel as correct.

Frank Oliver, helper in the deposit melting room in 1893-94, testified as to the operation in that and the ingot melting room, also to the handwriting of defendant.

Andrew Mason, recalled.—After Jones was suspended I told him of the discovery of the bogus Bodie melt. He expressed surprise, saying "that's bad for me," it being in his department. He asked me to give him the number of the melt, but I declined, also to allow him access to the books.

George McLaughlin, formerly machinist and pressman at the mint, described the duties of that position. He frequently visited the Melting and Refining department and observed the various processes of melting, molding and stamping bullion; repeated his former testimony relative to the dies or stamps used, showing the jury in the figure used on the bogus Bodie melt and the larger one used in the legitimate melts in years past. This small 4 is from the deposit melting room and has a small piece broken out. It exactly fits the stamped figure on the bogus bars. Witness showed to the jury how the bars of the bogus melt fitted the molds, both bars and molds being present for the purpose, and gave his opinion that the bogus melt was older than some that were cast in the same molds afterward.

Cross-examined by Coffin, witness fitted various other bars, making some misfits from his testimony at the other trial of Jones, which were shown to the jury; gave his opinion that some of the figures were stamped cold and others hot. I never had any experience in such details of mint operations before the other trial of Jones, when I was called upon to examine into and study up the matter.

The object of this testimony was to show that the bogus Bodie melt was made in the mint previous to the annual settlement of 1893. Witness occupied the stand two hours and a half.

Noteware and Ellis, recalled, made a few statements relative to casting settlement bars and stamping them before cooling off, and the deficiency in 1893.

The prosecution here rested its case, and it was nearly 4 p. m. Woodburn asked continuance until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock before commencing on the defense. This was readily agreed upon and court adjourned.

It is said that the reason why Henry was not brought upon the witness stand by the prosecution was because judicious interviewing developed that he was not wanted.

All That Was Mortal of William Biggs
Consigned to the Grave.

One of the largest and saddest funerals that ever took place in Reno, occurred yesterday at the burial of the late William Biggs. At 10 o'clock in the morning friends gathered at his late residence, and shortly after, the funeral cortège, headed by Hastings' band, moved to the Catholic Church, where the services were conducted by Rev. Father Dermody.

Over sixty carriages were in line, and the long procession moved towards the final resting place of the deceased, there was a deep feeling of sadness as each person recalled the circumstances of his violent death.

There were eighteen pall bearers, six from Donner Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West; six from the Order of Railway Trainmen, both of which orders the deceased was a member, and six from among his friends in Reno.

Twenty-six of the railroad boys from Wadsworth arrived to attend the funeral, besides many friends from Virginia and Truckee.

The floral pieces were very beautiful and appropriate and were as follows:

A broken wheel from the railroad and express boys of Reno, a cross from Messing W. A. Ewers, pillow from the N. S. G. W., a broken column from St. Joseph lilies and white roses.

Always cheerful, bright, modest and retiring in disposition, she was the light of the household, and gained and ever retained the esteem and friendship of all who knew her. May she rest in peace.

Judgment Armed.

The decision of the lower Court in the case of Dennis vs. Caughlin has been affirmed by the Supreme Court.

This is the Shreveville contest, which has been in the courts for sometime and is at last settled. The decision of the Supreme Court settles the rights of Caughlin to the sheriff's office and the trials have demonstrated that he was properly and regularly elected under the law.
